

Graz University of Technology
Architectural Research Lecture series

Hans-Christian von Herrmann (TU Berlin)
The City As Programmable Environment:
Nicolas Schöffer and the New Topologies
of Urban Design and Planning

Thursday, January 16, 2020 19:00

Lessingstraße 25/1, HS L

Graz University of Technology

Hans-Christian von Herrmann is Professor for Literary Studies (Literature and Science) at Technische Universität Berlin. His research is concerned with media aesthetics, the ecology of media and knowledge research. From 2011 to 2016 he led a research project funded by the DFG which addressed the Zeiss Planetarium as a hyperreal environment. The results were published in a book which came out in 2018: Zum Planetarium. Wissensgeschichtliche Studien (Paderborn).