Effective Collaboration

Introduction to Conflict Management

Conflicts are inevitable and part of our working life, in academia as well as outside – whether it is about subject specific differences, competition amongst colleagues or disagreements with the supervisor.

The key is not to avoid conflict, but to learn how to recognise the potential for conflict early on and deal with it constructively to prevent it from escalating.

This workshop conveys fundamental knowledge about dealing with conflict. You develop a better understanding of your own conflict resolution preference and learn how to expand your approach accordingly depending on the situation
