

Angelika Tisch studied technical environmental protection at the Technical University in Berlin (TUB). She completed her thesis in 2002 at the Institute of Process Engineering at TUB, then worked there as a research scientist in the field of "Social-Ecological Research/Gender & Environment".

Since April 2006, Angelika has been a scientist in the department of "Ecological Product Policy" at IFZ which she has been heading since 2012; since 2013 she is also deputy chair person of IFZ.

Main fields of research

Strategic public procurement, Product-service-systems, Methods for the ecological assessment of products